Tired, Old Girl Packs Plenty of Punch and Problems

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON
Ulster County was spared the full fury of a now tiring Hurricane Agnes, but the early summer storm still packed enough punch to create some havoc with driving rains and heavy winds. Minor flooding was reported in isolated areas throughout Ulster County during the night, but experts are now optimistic that the crisis has passed.

Slightly more than an inch of rain fell in Kingston during a six-hour period Thursday night. Cooper Lake recorded one inch of rainfall between 8 a.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. today.

Agnes fooled the flood watchers in this area Thursday night. The storm moved on a persistent course up the Hudson Valley until it reached Newburgh, and then veered unexpectedly to the west. Ulster County's gain was western New York's loss.

The Wallkill Area Flood Committee called off its flood watch late Thursday night.

Chairman Leroy Fein said today that the flood margin in Southern Ulster County should reach one inch by tonight; 1.5 inches in the northern sections of the county. He said the county's flood danger has passed.

Flood conditions however, did affect parts of the county Thursday night and early today. Two families and several campers were evacuated from the Woodland Valley area near Phoenicia when the Woodland Valley Creek overflowed its banks. They were given emergency shelter in the Shandaken Town Hall.

A section of Route 209 in Accord was washed out Thursday night. Police reported close to three feet of water over the roadway late Thursday; the depth diminished to less than two feet by morning, but the road remained closed to all but heavy trucks today.

Flood conditions were also reported along Springtown Road in New Paltz and Creek Locks Road in Eddyville; a mudslide closed one lane of Route 52 in Ellenville, and several other streets in that village were under water Thursday.

The flood control projects in Ellenville and Rosendale weathered the storm successfully. The project in Ellenville is only half completed.

Minor overnight flooding was reported in Kingston: The Strand was barricaded from traffic due to high water.

Central Hudson reported more than 30 power failures Thursday and early today due to the high winds. The most serious was in Woodstock, where 800 customers were without power for a time Thursday afternoon.

Rondout and Sawkill Creeks and the Wallkill River stayed within their banks at most locations throughout the county.

More rain and heavy winds are forecast for tonight, with scattered showers expected over the weekend, but overall accumulation is not expected to create flooding problems locally.

Massive Evacuation, Toll Rising

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Major flood warnings were issued today for the Ohio, Allegheny and Monongahela rivers in western Pennsylvania as diehard storm Agnes stalled in its tracks and pumped more rain on already soaked sections of Pennsylvania and New York.

National Guard units in both states were assisting in the evacuation of thousands from flood-threatened cities, including Harrisburg and Elmira. The confirmed death count in Agnes' wake was 36 with at least a score more missing and feared dead.

"We have a major disaster developing," if the rain continues, National Weather Service hydrologist William Long warned in Pittsburgh. He said the Ohio was rising at the rate of a foot an hour at 4 a.m. and would pass the 25-foot flood stage by midmorning.

Flood warnings were extended for all of western Pennsylvania, where Gov. Milton Shapp declared a state of extreme emergency on Thursday as the torrential storm battered up the Eastern seaboard.

Lashing gale force winds and leaving up to a foot of rain, the still potent remains of Hurricane Agnes forced the evacuation of thousands, including entire towns. Transportation and utilities were crippled from Virginia north to near Albany, N.Y.

There was no immediate word on when the sprawling, swirling Ohio might crest. The drenching rain, now in its fourth day, was also causing widespread mudslides in western Pennsylvania. Slides were occurring "faster than we can possibly keep up with them," said a spokesman for the state transportation department.

Massive evacuations were under way in Harrisburg, Wilkes-Barre and Clearfield County. Rivers were overflowing in Philadelphia.

In New York State, Elmira, a city of 40,000, began to evacuate because the Chemung River was rising six inches an hour in the area. Water was reported spilling over 23-foot-high dikes in nearby Corning.

Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson said in New York City Thursday night that losses from the flooding already exceeded several million dollars.

He planned a helicopter tour of the stricken areas today. The National Weather Service said Agnes, which began as a hurricane and later was downgraded to a tropical storm, was being absorbed by a nontropical storm center early today over northeastern Pennsylvania.

Little or no movement of the center was expected for 12 to 24 hours and the service said "This poses the threat of more or less continuous rains within a radius of several hundred miles from the storm center."

Elmira City Manager Joseph Sartori ordered the start of the evacuation of the city at 3:30 a.m. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller ordered National Guard units to assist.

He also ordered a unit to help at Olean, where the Allegheny River was expected to crest at 23.5 feet at 9 a.m. The city's 21,000 residents were warned to expect the "worst flood ever."

The 8,000 residents of Salamanca were reported encircled by flood water around the city. Although the rainfall was diminishing in some areas, Pennsylvania officials said the worst of the flooding was yet to come. Rivers, some already 10 feet above flood stage, were to crest tonight.

The evacuation of 5,000 persons from the hardest-hit areas of Harrisburg began at midnight with National Guardsmen using floating personnel carriers and between 50 and 60 trucks.

A state of emergency existed in Eldred, a town of about 2,500 on the New York State border. Mrs. William Luce, wife of the police chief, said, "We're completely under water—I would say seven or nine feet on Main Street. The whole southern end of town is evacuated. Gas lines are breaking. All roads are closed. The water is going bad. Most of the telephones are out."

At Port Allegany, water cracked a dike and swept through town. Some of the estimated 15,000 persons evacuated in Maryland were returned to their homes by late Thursday, but fears of near-record river cresting forced new evacuations along the Potomac and Susquehanna rivers.

The Weather Service forecast a 70 per cent chance of additional rain over the state today. Ten trailer homes along U.S.

Route 1 were swept into Northeast Creek Thursday night when the river became overburdened by flood waters sweeping down from Pennsylvania.

Eastern Virginia braced for an onslaught of flood waters from inundated rivers and streams in the interior of the state.

Flood crests that could climb past those set by the remnants of Hurricane Camille in 1969 heightened concern for the threatened dam on Occoquan Creek in Prince William County.

Thousands of persons continued to take refuge in schools, churches and Virginia National Guard armories because their homes were either flooded or still threatened. Hundreds of guardsmen patrolled stricken areas to guard against looting.

In the West, two straight days of torrential rains and tornado winds turned water-starved central Arizona deserts into marshlands. More showers were forecast for today.

Storm damage throughout Arizona has been estimated in the millions of dollars, and Gov. Jack Williams has placed the Arizona National Guard on alert.

BY-PASS ACCIDENT—John A. Kovacs, 39, of Box 281, Lake Katrine, was injured at 5:20 p.m. Thursday when his car slid on wet pavement and crashed into guard rails and a utility pole off the East Chester Street By-pass, Town of Ulster. Kovacs was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. His injuries were not immediately noted. Corporal John R. Tuet and Deputy Chris Ecker's report noted Kovacs was attempting to pass another car that was making a left turn when the mishap occurred. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

City Hall Plaza...Status Sought

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON
City officials will meet with developers of the proposed City Hall Plaza in Broadway East on June 29 for a progress report on the development which was targeted for an Aug. 1 construction start.

Final plans for the development arrived at the offices of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency on Monday, right on schedule, but James G. Connors, executive director, was away at an urban renewal conference in Lake Placid and said he didn't get the chance to review them until Thursday. "They look pretty much like the plans they presented at the mayor's press conference" (on March 27), Connors said.

The meeting on the 29th was requested by Alderman Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward), chairman of the Common Council's Urban Renewal Committee, who said he "hasn't heard anything about the project since we approved it in April." We want to find out what's going on, whether they're going to build this thing or not," Sinsabaugh said.

Officials of the Hanover Company of Merrick, L. I., at the mayor's press conference on March 27, said then that the project was 75 per cent rented. Such, apparently, is not the case. The Freeman contacted officials of the firm this week and was told "firm offers" have been received from "two or three" stores. Officials also told The Freeman that the lease for the all-important supermarket has not been signed, although they say they "have some good leads."

Connors, the urban renewal director, hasn't been in direct contact with the developers but says, "I still think this thing is going to go." Celestino P. Caruso, a member of the urban renewal agency, credited with bringing the developers to Kingston, said, "I think it looks good, too. I haven't been in touch with them, but as far as I'm concerned, it's set to go. I have no reason to believe otherwise."

Mayor Francis R. Koenig, who was at the urban renewal conference with Connors and returned to city hall Thursday morning, is reviewing the plans.

Those plans call for the construction of a shopping plaza on a five-acre site at Broadway and Meadow Street with parking for some 300 cars. Construction costs have been estimated at $2 million. The land was purchased from the urban renewal agency for $25,000 and the agency has $2,500 on deposit as a down payment on the property. The Common Council gave its approval to the project at its April 4 meeting.

Next Thursday night's meeting will be held in the urban renewal offices on Broadway. Attendees will include Sinsabaugh and his committee, members of the agency, the mayor and representatives of the developer.

Businessmen Suggest Dogs To Curb Wave of Burglaries

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the second and concluding part of The Freeman's series on the increase in area burglaries, reporter Walter S. Clark interviews area businessmen concerning their feelings on the recent rash of lawlessness and their recommendations on how to solve the situation.

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON
Security dogs to patrol business districts and the assignment of more policemen to foot patrols on beats during the night, have been proposed by area businessmen's association officials in an effort to curb the activities of burglars who have preyed upon this area in recent months.

Special

Merchants, especially those in this city and Town of Ulster where the wave of burglaries continues to increase, are greatly concerned and alarmed about the growing thievery in the area that has netted burglars unestimated amounts of cash and valuable articles that can readily be sold for minimal profits.

Another deterrent against the operation of burglars who may be organized as a gang with a pattern of activity, should be revisions that are to be made to a recently enacted ordinance regulating pawnbrokers.

Changes in that legislation recommended by Police Chief Julius Glassman would include swapshops and dealers in second hand items in addition to the pawnshops.

Tightening of that ordinance would mandate that all operators of such businesses must keep daily records noting the identification of persons with whom they deal, the date of purchases made by the storekeeper and a description of the articles bought by him or his agent.

Such records at all times must be open for inspection by the city clerk and to the chief of police during business hours. Any person who violates any provisions of the ordinance would be guilty of a Class B misdemeanor and, upon conviction, subject to a fine not exceeding $500, or imprisonment for three months, or both.

Ultimatum by Martha

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Martha Mitchell says she is "sick and tired" of politics and has threatened to leave her husband unless he gets out of the political arena.

"I gave him an ultimatum," the wife of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell told a UPI reporter in a telephone conversation from Newport Beach, Calif. Thursday night.

Mitchell, contacted at his Washington apartment, took his wife's latest phone tirade in good stride.

"She's great," he said. "That little sweetheart. I love her so much. She gets a little upset about politics, but she loves me and I love her and that's what counts."

Mrs. Mitchell's phone call, which she initiated, was ended abruptly when someone apparently grabbed the phone from her hand. She was heard to say: "You just get away."

Attempts to regain the broken connection failed when an operator said "Mrs. Mitchell is indisposed and cannot talk."

Mitchell said his wife's sister and a secretary were with her in Newport Beach and it was probably one of them who terminated the call.

Mitchell explained that his wife wants him to return to his highly successful New York law practice.

"Martha has never been happy with me in politics," he said. "We have a compact. We have agreed we're going to get the hell out of this gambit. We aren't going to be in Washington after Nov. 7. We're going to leave lock stock and barrel. We have that understanding. We're going to get out of this rat race. We have no interest."

Mitchell resigned from his Cabinet post some months ago to spearhead President Nixon's re-election campaign, the same post he held in 1968.

He said he has absolutely no interest in accepting another Washington job, including a rumored Supreme Court appointment.

Mc Switches Tactics

WASHINGTON (AP) — George McGovern, described by aides as assured of the Democratic presidential nomination, has scheduled a six-state swing through the South to muster support for a campaign against President Nixon.

"We're running against Nixon now," said Frank Mankiewicz, one of the South Dakota senator's top strategists. McGovern needs no fresh support from Dixie to win the nomination, his strategists said Thursday. In fact, they have said he will have enough convention delegates for the nomination by July 1.

The reason for the trip, they said, is to show Southern Democratic leaders he can do well in the region believed to be his weakest, and also to rev up his supporters for the fall campaign.

McGovern is scheduled to begin the trip Monday with stops in Oklahoma City and San Antonio, Tex. He continues to Little Rock, Ark., and Atlanta on Tuesday, and Columbia, S.C., and Richmond, Va., on Wednesday.

The latest Associated Press delegate count gave McGovern 1,302.5, just over 200 short of the 1,509 he needs for the nomination. McGovern aides have said he will have 1,407 delegates by the end of the week, and another 102 delegates by July 1.

Meanwhile, the campaigns of both McGovern and his leading rival for the Democratic nomination, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, have slowed momentarily.

Humphrey was scheduled to meet Thursday with delegates in New Jersey but remained in Washington because of a rain storm. He planned to address black newspaper editors in Miami today.

McGovern remained in Washington and planned a weekend's rest at his summer home at St. Michael's, Md.

McGovern was handed a court victory in California on Thursday. U.S. Dist. Court Judge Philip Wilkins in Sacramento rejected an effort to up set McGovern's claim to all 271 California delegates.

An attorney representing Humphrey's California campaign and other losers in the state's June 6 primary said the decision would be appealed. The suit challenged the constitutionality of California's winner-take-all primary system.

Loser Lowenstein Going to Court

NEW YORK (AP) — Allard K. Lowenstein says a suit will be filed in U.S. District Court today challenging the results of the Democratic primary election which he narrowly lost to incumbent Rep. John Rooney.

Lowenstein, who lost to Rooney 13,868 to 12,833, said Thursday the plaintiffs in the federal suit would be a group of black and Puerto Rican voters claiming their civil rights had been interfered with because they were deprived of the right to vote.

Lowenstein said his loss had resulted from "a pattern of massive fraud, which in my view was planned."

Grievances alleged by Lowenstein were: missing registration records; shortage of voting machines; lengthy lines that discouraged many of his supporters; lack of polling inspection, resulting in some voters being able to vote more than once and ballot casting by enrolled Republicans Conservatives and Liberals.

"We believe that I actually won by 2,500 votes," Lowenstein, a former congressman from Nassau County, said at his Brooklyn campaign headquarters. Another suit, with the candidate as the plaintiff, will be filed next week in State Supreme Court, Lowenstein said.

Retaliation Raids From Israeli Gunners

By United Press International Israeli gunners fired into southern Lebanon early today in retaliation for several long-range rockets fired at Israeli villages. The rockets, presumably fired by Arab commandos, hit the northern Israeli villages of Kiriath Shmona and Kfar Giladi. But there were no reports of casualties or damage.

"Fire was returned," an Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said today.

A second incident was reported Thursday night, with Arabs firing a number of shells from Syria that hit the area of Ramat Magshimim and the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights. No casualties nor damage were reported and Israeli forces did not return the fire.

Israeli forces struck into Lebanon Wednesday in retaliation for the May 30 massacre at Lod International Airport in Tel Aviv. In the action they captured five Syrian officers, including a general.

In Beirut, political sources said government leaders have started separate talks with the Palestinian guerrilla officials and southern village chiefs in the wake of the Israeli attacks. Newspapers said that as many as 48 persons, including guerrillas and civilians, were killed in the Wednesday strike, although officials listed 14 dead and 70 wounded.

The Middle East News Agency (MENA) said Al Fatah leader Yasser Arafat met with Lebanese Prime Minister Saeb Salam for talks Thursday night for the second time in two days.

It said they discussed the situation in southern Lebanon and the government's relations with the guerrillas.

Israel has made it clear on numerous occasions it holds the Lebanese government responsible for any acts committed by the guerrillas who make their bases in Lebanon.

In Cairo, Mohammed Hassanin Heikal, editor of the semi-official Al Ahram newspaper, said the Arabs "have in our hands political, economic and strategic weapons which we have not used yet. We can start a fire in an area where the world cannot tolerate a fire."

Guards on Hunger Strike

NEW YORK (UPI)—The city's prison guards, claiming they developed diarrhea and began vomiting after they ate lunch Saturday, went on a "hunger strike" Thursday to protest their food being prepared and served by prisoners.

Leo Zeferetti, head of the Corrections Officers Benevolent Association, said since guards of are not permitted to leave the premises to get food, nor are they permitted to bring any in, they are going on a hunger strike. He said he expected it to spread soon throughout the 2,800-man union.

Zeferetti said the guards at the Bronx House of Detention apparently suffered some type of "food poisoning" after eating lunch Saturday but stopped short of saying it was prisoner-induced.

He blamed it on the poor kitchen facilities at all the prisons and said he met Wednesday night with Correction Commissioner Benjamin Malcolm, who he said, agreed with him that something should be done.

Governor Orders Investigation

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Governor Rockefeller ordered his staff Thursday to look into charges of alleged law enforcement failings in New York City uncovered by the House Crime Committee.

Rockefeller said the hearings, counsel, Michael Whiteman, to review the minutes and related materials in the case to determine "what action, if any, would be appropriate."

Rockefeller instructed his rights and liberties of all our citizens. Gold denied the charges made about him. Other probes, such as by the State Investigation Commission, reportedly have discovered other corruption by police officials and investigators.

"The specific charges are very serious," the governor's statement said.

"The fair and impartial enforcement of our criminal laws is essential to safeguard the rights and liberties of all our citizens.

Gold denied the charges made about him. Other probes, such as by the State Investigation Commission, reportedly have discovered other corruption by police officials and investigators.

Rockefeller said his concern was with the crime committee "and other current inquiries with respect to law enforcement and disposition of criminal cases in New York City."

COME HOME TO FORD

There was a time in America when life was simpler.

Most cities were called "towns." Highways were called "roads." And when you talked about cars, you called them Fords.

It was the kind of car a country could live with and grow up with.

If it was easy to buy and simple to run, it was a Ford.

That was the original idea. Well, we've come a long, long way down that road.

Along the way, a car became something more complicated than transportation.

Lots of people got caught up in bigness and status symbols.

Or carried away by foreign intrigue.

Maybe a new way of looking at life and buying things has done it. Maybe the rising cost of everything.

But now, America is coming home—to Ford.

To quietness. And easy care. And style shaped by good sense, not show.

Ford's Pintos and Mavericks and Torinos are beautiful machines, but they're also easy to run.

In fact, your Ford dealer has seven great cars that are.

It's the original idea, really—in its 1972 model.

You waited long enough. Come home to Ford.

C-H Dividend

The Board of Directors of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, at its monthly meeting held at the South Road Office, Poughkeepsie, today declared a dividend of 38 cents per share on its common stock, payable August 1, 1972 to holders of record July 10, 1972.

Rondout Valley Teachers Ratify New Contract

By JON POWERS

For an entire year, the Rondout Valley Teachers Association worked under a contract it didn't favor or approve, but a different story has been written for the next two years.

By an overwhelming 9-1 margin, the Teachers Association

Thursday ratified a two-year contract with the Board of Education.

"I'm glad the Board of Education finally became concerned about education and not just finances," said RVTA president Peter Hengstenberg today, "that seems to be the trend these days."

Hengstenberg said he was satisfied with the new contract provisions. "I think the margin of ratification shows that the teachers are satisfied with the contract," he added.

Last year, the RVTA and the Board of Education could not reach agreement on a new contract. An impasse was declared, and subsequent mediation and fact-finding proved futile. The board then held a legislative hearing and, under provisions of the Taylor Law, imposed a settlement on the teachers. The RVTA never gave its endorsement to that "contract."

Superintendent of Schools Robert Robertaccio said today he was "very pleased" that the two sides reached agreement. He said he was especially pleased that a two-year agreement was negotiated. "We have a chance now to begin working more closely with our staff," he said.

The new agreement gives the teachers a base pay of $7,950 in 1972-73 and $8,400 in 1973-74. The teachers now receive $7,600 at the lowest level.

The Board of Education also agreed to a sick leave bank, summer study stipend and increase in per credit hour payment for the teachers.

A major stumbling block in last year's negotiations was settled this year when the board agreed to a class size article in the new contract.

Shoe Store Owner Free on $75,000 Bail

By HUGH REYNOLDS

MANHATTAN Joseph A. Landisi, the Beacon

shoe store owner, accused of attempting to extort a total of $650,000 from the Cunard line and American Air Lines with bomb threats, is free on $75,000 bail.

The Cunard story began on May 17 when Landisi allegedly sent an unsigned letter to Cunard executives stating that bombs had been placed aboard the Queen Elizabeth 2 and that they would be detonated if the money was not paid. The 65,000-ton luxury liner was then in mid-Atlantic on a voyage from New York to Europe with 1,500 passengers, mostly Americans, and 800 crewmen. The ship was stopped in the water about 500 miles from the Azores where British Army bomb disposal experts parachuted on board. A search of the ship failed to turn up any explosives.

American Air Lines received a letter signed by "The People's Welfare" threatening to blow up air line terminals unless $300,000 in ransom was paid. A second letter was sent on June 20 directing air line officials to proceed to Beacon for the dropoff.

The money was dropped off, as directed, behind the Beacon Post Office at 9:30 Tuesday night, a marked package which was supposed to contain the $300,000. Federal agents and officers from the Beacon Police Department were waiting when Landisi allegedly picked up the package at around 1:30 a.m. Wednesday morning. Police said they watched Landisi carry off the package and attempt to hide it. His home at 7 Henry Street is about equidistant from the Post Office and his shoe store, about a block and a half.

Landisi was arrested as he opened his shoe store, "Joseph's Bootery," on Wednesday morning, and taken for arraignment in Manhattan.

Fourth Market Is Burglarized

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

A fourth market burglary in Kingston reported to authorities this week occurred today at Farber's Supermarket, 183 Smith Avenue where 200 cartons of assorted cigarettes and $7.10 in cash were reportedly stolen.

It was the second market burglary in this city in the last two nights. Sometime early Thursday, Schecter's Market was hit by thieves who made off with 100 cartons of assorted cigarettes valued at about $400.

Detectives reported that police received a call at 1:42 a.m. today from a resident, not identified, that noises of breaking glass were heard in the vicinity of the Farber store. When police arrived they found no one that was involved in the break-in.

Investigation disclosed that a stone had apparently been thrown through a window, and inside the market the burglar, or burglars, reportedly packed 200 cartons of cigarettes valued at $757.10, and made off with them before authorities appeared on the scene. One cash register was reportedly rifled of $3.60 and $3.50 was apparently taken from another register in the store.

Police were told that a full stock of cigarettes had been delivered to the store yesterday. Earlier this week Schneller's Market at 63 John Street, was reportedly burglarized and a bag containing $70 was reportedly stolen. Last weekend one of a series of burglaries took place at the Mohican Market.

57 John Street where $450 was allegedly taken from cash registers that had been priced open.

Other burglaries reported to authorities Thursday occurred at the Fallsburgh Bottling Works, Inc., Albany Avenue Mall, the DeWitt Gem Cadillac Oldsmobile building on East Chester Street by-pass, and the Whalebuck Inn on Route 9G near Rhinebeck.

State Police noted the bottling works was entered by forcing a door. A spokesman for the company said two halves of beer were allegedly taken.

Entry to the automobile agency was made through a rear window that had been broken during a previous burglary, the sheriff's office reported. Whether anything of value was taken has not been determined.

Rhinebeck State Police investigated the break-in at the Whalebuck Inn. It was reported that quantities of liquors and cigarettes and electronic equipment, value not noted, had been allegedly stolen. The restaurant has been hit by burglars several times in the last few years, it was reported.

Kingston detectives are continuing investigation of a burglary at Kingston Hospital which was reported to police yesterday. Entry was gained by removing a screen from a window leading to a ground floor locker room in the rear of the building. Police said vending machines had been rifled of undetermined amounts of cash. Cigarettes also were stolen, authorities noted.

Saugerties High Commencement Exercises Sunday

SAUGERTIES
Commencement exercises for the Class of 1972 at Saugerties High School will be held at 1 p.m. on Sunday, June 25, on the Washington Avenue campus. In case of inclement weather the ceremonies will be transferred indoors to the high school gymnasium at the same date and time. There will be no outside speaker for the commencement. Graduates will hear talks by Joy McLaughlin, valedictorian, Jane Smith, salutatorian, and Cheryl Malgieri, class president.

Daniel Y. Lee, high school principal, will present candidates for graduation to Anthony Riozzi, president of the Board of Education, who will award diplomas. Special awards will be distributed by Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent of schools.

The high school band will perform the processional, Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance," the National Anthem, the Alma Mater, and the recessional. Invocation and benediction will be by the Rev. Frederick Imhoff, pastor of the Saugerties Congregational Church. A class of 243 graduates, largest in the school's history, will receive diplomas before an expected gathering of 2,000 persons, school officials said. Included in the graduates are eight who maintained cumulative averages of 90 per cent or better during their high school careers. They are Robert Brady, Marc Limeri, Joy McLaughlin, Linda Reader, Linda Rittle, David See, Jane Smith, and Diane Traver. Regents Scholarship winners in the graduating class include

Society Plans A Field Trip

NORTH LAKE
The John Burroughs Natural History Society will have a fieldtrip Saturday, June 24 to the site of the old Catskill Mountain House near North Lake.

Hikers should meet at Thruway Exit 18 in Saugerties at 8:30 a.m. Those that cannot climb a rugged trail should drive to the public parking lot at North Lake, near Haines Falls at 10:30 a.m. Those attending will bring a lunch. Alf Evers of Woodstock, historian, raconteur and naturalist, will lead this trip which will follow the trail that John and William Bartram used in 1753 when looking for seeds and plants to send back to England. Evers has written hundreds of articles on history and is the author of 50 children's books. In September his latest book will be published, "The Catskills" — from Wilderness to Woodstock. The next trip of the John Burroughs Society will be July 8 at Ashokan Reservoir, New Paltz College Camp. Details will be announced.

Tentative Events Slated For Bicentennial Program

KINGSTON
Tentative celebration events have been set by the Kingston Bicentennial Commission in anticipation of the 1976 anniversary year.

At a recent meeting the commission suggested a spring celebration of Tulip Time in April and May.

Summer program would mark Independence Day in July and Inauguration of the First Governor of New York State in August.

The October program would commemorate the burning of Kingston by the British Oct. 16, 1777.

In order to have a successful celebration as part of the American Revolution Bicentennial it was determined that a great many people must be involved. The next meeting of the commission will be held at Savings and Loan of Kingston 7:30 p.m. July 19. Committees will be announced at that time.

Parks Commissioner Announces Transfer

STAATSBURG
Parks and Recreation Commissioner Alexander Aldrich announced the transfer of Roland A. Block, Staatsburg, Regional Manager of the Taconic State Park Region, to the same position in the Allegany State Parks Region.

Also announced was the transfer of Peter F. Rain, Salamanca, from Allegany to fill the position vacated by Block.

The move will become effective Aug. 10.

Block will be returning to his home area and his first work in the State Park system. A native of Great Valley, he received his civil engineering degree at the Carnegie Mellon University and is a licensed Professional Engineer.

He entered the State Parks system as Park Engineer in the Allegany Region and was appointed Senior Park Engineer in the Taconic Region in 1957. He was then promoted to Assistant Manager, Acting Manager, and finally Regional Manager.

Block is married to the late Marjorie E. Carpenter of Salamanca, and has three children, including a student at Bennett College, Millbrook.

Block is a member of the United Methodist Church of Hyde Park. He has been a National Ski Patrolman since 1950 and was active in scouting since 1946. He was Dutchess County Council Commissioner, Boy Scouts of America, 1967-68, and is a member of the Neighbor's Gun Club.

Peter Rain entered the State Park system in 1960 after receiving his degree in landscape architecture forestry from Syracuse University.

Bizarre Attempt

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien says it raises the ugliest questions about the integrity of the political process "that I have encountered in a quarter century."

Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, who heads the committee for the reelection of President Nixon, says the action was not in "our behalf or with our consent."

Somewhere in between those two statements lies the true evaluation of what certainly is a reprehensible act of five men seeking to "bug" headquarters of the Democratic party in Washington.

It is hard to conceive of men of honor inspiring or even countenancing the planting of electronics devices in the quarters of a rival political party even though the most important political office in the world is at stake. It might be dismissed as a prank or perhaps a scheme of unprincipled men to obtain classified information which they might later attempt to sell—except for two very suspicious factors.

One is that among the five men arrested Saturday was a former Central Intelligence Agency employee, James W. McCord, who had been engaged by the committee to reelect President Nixon as a salaried security coordinator. Mr. McCord is no menial but a person highly trained in investigated work, with a background of 19 years in the service of the CIA.

Meat Prices Soar

This week the Price Commission is meeting to discuss some of its options, in case meat prices start to peak. Meat prices are starting up again because the demand is causing a shortage, which in turn is raising price. And the price rise starts with the fact that beef, pork and other agricultural products are exempt from price controls at the farm level.

Last February, when rising meat prices were causing an outcry by consumers, Secretary of the Treasury John Connally as the nation's spokesman on economic stability, called in some of the biggest food chain chiefs for an exchange of opinions. The super markets not only held the line,

The other factor is the amount and variety of equipment the five men had on hand. They had both photographic and electronic surveillance devices capable of intercepting not only telephone conversations, but regular conversation as well.

So these two elements obviously remove the early-morning activity from child's play or an underworld get-rich-quick scheme.

Chairman O'Brien has a right to be outraged although whether it is the worst act of political intrigue in a quarter century is open to question.

But until a thorough investigation is made and the motivation behind the "bugging" attempt revealed, Mr. O'Brien is justified in saying that no mere statement of innocence by Mr. Nixon's manager will dispel his questions.

The episode becomes all the more bizarre in view of the disparity between the two major parties. The Republicans are sailing along smoothly and are overwhelming favorites to retain the presidency. The Democrats are in a state of disorganization, quarreling among themselves and heavily in debt. The act would be more understandable if the situation were reversed.

So it's an embarrassing state of affairs for the Republicans and the sooner it is cleared up, the better off the country, as well as the GOP, will be.

but in many instances, even cut prices. Now some of the retail chains say their price rises will not reflect the full wholesale price increase, that they would have to raise the price of other food products to make up the difference and cover their overheads, that if they absorb some of the meat increases they have to make it up in other products and they hope the public will understand.

C. Jackson Grayson Jr., chairman of the Price Commission, said the options his agency could take are "so undesirable" that they will only be taken as a last resort. They include direct control of food prices and possible rationing.

WASHINGTON — A review of the secret record has persuaded Henry Kissinger's aides that Gen. John Lavelle's private air war against North Vietnam may well have upset the peace prospects last fall. President Nixon had limited air strikes against North Vietnam to "protective reaction." Our planes weren't supposed to bomb above the demilitarized zone, in other words, unless they were provoked by enemy action. The general instructed his pilots not to report after these raids that there had been "no enemy action." Washington, therefore, didn't know from reading the reports that the raids had been unprovoked. Lavelle, for his part, was understandably upset over reconnaissance photos, which showed a Communist military buildup across the demilitarized zone. He took the authority upon himself to send planes against the most tempting targets.

If he had to do it all over again, he has now told Congressmen, he would take the same action but would not falsify the reports. He assumed that he knew better than the President how to run the war. What Lavelle didn't know, however, was that the President was trying to end the war through delicate secret negotiations.

While Lavelle's unauthorized bombing was going on Henry Kissinger was talking secretly with Le Duc Tho in Paris about a settlement. Kissinger assured the Hanoi leader that the United States was attacking North Vietnam only when its planes were attacked.

Le Duc Tho angrily insisted that the bombing went beyond protective reaction."

Finally, in mid-November, he broke off the secret talks after more than a year of sporadic negotiating.

Kissinger had reason to know how sensitive the North Vietnamese were about negotiation under the gun. Back in 1967, he tried to get a dialogue going with the North Vietnamese, he sent two French friends, Herbert Marcovitch and Raymond Aubra, to Hanoi with a peace offering.

On their return to Paris, they stayed in regular contact for several months with North Vietnam's Mai Vann Bo. But they couldn't persuade Bo to sit down with Kissinger, because the peace offer had coincided with the bombing of Hanoi.

As a gesture, the United States suspended the bombing temporarily. But Bo handed the two French emissaries a note declaring: "The bombing of Hanoi at the same time as the sending of the (peace) message constitutes a pressure. Stopping of the bombing along with the threat of a renewal has the character of an ultimatum."

Kissinger Rebuffed
When the Frenchmen pleaded, Bo stated firmly: "Because of the continued threat of bombing Hanoi, which has the character of an ultimatum, a direct meeting with Kissinger cannot take place."

Later, the Frenchmen urged Bo at least to have coffee with Kissinger at a private residence. "Let me think about how best to arrange a meeting," replied Bo. "and I will let you know."

But Bo finally explained, according to the secret record, "that Hanoi is reluctant to talk under duress with any officially connected American."

As Bo put it sharply: "The Americans are playing a double game. On the one hand, they are offering us peace. On the other, they increase their bombing."

Other overtures finally brought another written message from Bo, repeating: "I accept your expression of confidence in Kissinger, but at the moment when U.S. is increasing its escalation, it was not possible for me to see him."

Kissinger never was able to talk with Bo and the intermediaries finally gave up. This peace approach, known by the secret code name "Pennsylvania," failed in 1967.

Finally, in 1970 Kissinger held a series of secret meetings with Le Duc Tho. But these, too, were broken after Lavelle's unauthorized bombing raids.

Street Incident
So far has Mayor John Lindsay fallen in the esteem of some New Yorkers, that after a meeting recently in Brooklyn, a sidewalk crowd of about 200 people pelted him with popsicle sticks and cigarette wrappers.

The crowd had learned he was meeting in Dubrow's, a popular Brooklyn restaurant, with the King's Highway Board of Trade. When he emerged, the largely middle-aged and elderly crowd shouted obscenities at him and flung their missiles.

Nation of Suburbs

NEW ORLEANS — The fleshpots of Bourbon Street offered diversion but not solace for the visiting members of the U. S. Conference of Mayors this week. New Orleans nightlife seemed a metaphor for the common burden of U.S. mayors — most municipal treasuries are as bare as a French Quarter go-go girl.

The complaints of the mayors have been topless and bottomless and so constant that it has seemed that only the big-city Goliaths have been struggling to extract money from state capitals, from Washington and especially from the suburbs.

Not so. "If I had to sum up the problems of my city in a single word, it would be 'suburbs.' Our city has to provide services for a whole metropolitan area. We provide police, fire and other protection and we have to do it with a constantly shrinking tax base."

That is not the mayor of Chicago or New York. That is the articulation of Mayor Herbert Pfuhl Jr. of Johnstown, Pa., a more typical mayor in this 750-member conference than Richard Daley or John Lindsay.

The population of Johnstown went from 75,000 in 1960 to 45,000 today, but a lot of it went to the suburbs," he says. "Our metropolitan area — nearly all of it within six miles of City Hall — is 175,000 and we provide services for all of it. Now you can be the most dynamic mayor and the greatest leader there is and you can't get more money out of the central city."

Mayor Pfuhl is a Republican. Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans is a Democrat with statewide political ambitions and problems on a grander scale. His metropolitan area, and indeed the whole Delta region, depends on New Orleans for city services. But as Landrieu's late predecessor, deLesseps Morrison, discovered, the cosmopolitan image of his city is no help in Louisiana's backwoods and bayous.

"It seems to be a dilemma of politics in any big city," says Landrieu. His colleagues with similarly thwarted ambitions might agree.

But the spreading geography of urban problems may hold a key to the dilemma more than its politics. Suburbia is becoming urbanized and slowly infested with the urban blight of traffic, pollution, decay and drug addiction.

Johnstown's suburbia offers an example, as Mayor Pfuhl explains: "Richland Township used to be a little town of 7,000 a decade ago. Now it's grown to 32,000 so they decided to expand the tax base by building a big shopping center. Well, now they need new traffic lights and they need more policemen, because of a drug problem. Pretty soon they'll be looking for more help from Harrisburg and Washington, just like us."

Zealously careful zoning, of course, may preserve the idyllic qualities of suburbia. One place that hopes so is Hoffman Estates, Ill., 30 miles northwest of Chicago. "I came to this conference for the labor relations workshop," says Mayor Fred Downey, also a Republican. "Our police officers are asking $12,000 a year and looking for a really big, generous pension."

Hoffman Estates has 30,000 people, just enough to qualify its mayor for membership in the U.S. conference. "Our population is supposed to reach 80,000 by 1980," says Mayor Downey, whose part-time municipal chores have cut into his business-consultant work. "Naturally, I'm concerned that the problems of places like Chicago might reach us by then."

Three mayors with three perspectives seem to point to the same lesson. America is a nation of suburbs. Only when the crisis of the cities becomes the crisis of the suburbs will there be a confrontation with metropolitan reality. It looks like a race between determination and decay.

Some Racy Tales Disbelieved

There is less to Bobby Byrne than meets the eye. He, you may recall, is the sunglasses kid who testified before the eager, panting members of the House Crime Committee that he fixed horse races. I do not say that this heavily guarded fink never fixed a race; I say it can only be done at small tracks.

I like horse racing. My wife and I go for a dry cleaning about a half dozen times a year. After awhile, you achieve a nodding acquaintance with track owners like Jimmy Donn and Gene Mori and Sonny Werblin, and you save a smile for good trainers such as Arnold Winick and those magical midgets like Willie the Shoe and Ron Turcotte, etc.

What you learn, if you probe deep enough, is that there is so much honest money to be made in horse racing that a guy could lose everything being crooked.

Bobby Byrne testified that he and his cronies "cleaned up as much as $50,000 on a single race by shooting tranquilizers" into horses' necks.

Again I must point out that I am not speaking of the quarter-mile tracks where, if they stage a two-mile race, every jockey holds eight marbles in his mouth and spits one out every time he passes the finish line. No, I speak of Aqueduct, Saratoga, Garden State, Gulfstream, Hialeah, Monmouth, etc.

I knew a retired jock who claimed he used to fix races at the little tracks, but he never used tranquilizers except on his wife, who lived in a noisy trailer. He was intelligently crooked. He got to the jockeys in a given race and made up a betting pool on one horse.

The other jockeys would pull their horses in even if they had to walk them in the stretch. He also used an electric buzzer, but that's another yarn. Byrne claims he used a needle to shoot tranquilizers into the necks of six horses in a 10-horse race. Then he bet a bundle on the other four. Why six? Why not nine, and bet everything on one?

To fix a race, Byrne had to get into the stable area. Take my word for it, it isn't easy. He needed a badge, a security check, and a signature okay. Then he found himself in an area of long avenues of barns with dutch doors. On every street, from dawn until dark, stable boys are walking "hots" hay and feed are being delivered and spread; smithies are measuring horses for special aluminum shoes made for sloppy tracks or fast tracks.

Trainers are all over the place, frowning at the horses they are going to race today. Proud stable owners annoy everybody by bringing relatives and friends to see the horses. Mr. Byrne's chances of stabbing six horses with a needle are the same as snatching a purse on a plane at 30,000 feet.

The witness said he was stunned to find that, at Suffolk Downs, three gangs were doping horses at the same time. Assuming that they were not sufficiently friendly to tip each other off, the only way the nags could finish a 6-furlong race would be if the jockeys got off and ran to the finish line.

The Crime Committee chairman, Congressman Claude Pepper, is from Florida. The witness tossed him a bone by saying that he didn't fix races in Florida because the security police were so efficient. He also testified the Congressmen on the committee by stating that he was financed by the Carlo Gambino Mafia family.

Unless the Gambinos have traded their Godfather for a Godmother, they would realize at once that they didn't require the services of Bobby Byrne. All they would need would be the trade secrets of how to fix a race — and where — and Byrne would be burned. The sad truth is that these families are always asking each other: "What do we need him for?"

A negative response assures instant immortality. At most tracks, the betters are playing against each other on the tote board. On each dollar, the plunger is betting 83 cents. The remaining 17 cents go to the track, state taxes, purses, etc. On an average handle of $500,000, this comes to $85,000, not counting the sale of booze, bread and barns.

Who wants to kill that take? And yet, the world is full of people who believe that all horse races are fixed. My brother John will take a tip from a retarded Brownie. My father, to the contrary, wouldn't bet on a one-horse race. I asked him why.

"You heard of sore losers?" he snarled. "You're looking at a sore winner" . . .

Pound Sterling Set Free By British

LONDON (AP) — The British government set the pound sterling free today to find a new rate of exchange without government support, and the U.S. dollar was the first casualty. The British Treasury closed the London foreign exchange market until Tuesday. The Common Market governments closed their exchanges at least for today. But before the Frankfurt market shut down, the dollar plummeted to its floor of 3.15 marks. The dollar also made a sharp drop in Zurich, to 3.72-3.74 Swiss francs. The British Treasury said the floating of the pound was a temporary measure. Its purpose was to check a run on the pound, which has been beset by rumors that it would be devalued. The London Stock Exchange took the news calmly. Prices moved up on international issues, a traditional hedge against devaluation, but otherwise trading was quiet.

Market sources in Frankfurt said the drop in the dollar there, from 3.1920 at the closing Thursday to 3.15, was "nearly normal." They said the dollar had risen in the last few days only because of the weakness of the pound, and now this "artificial support" had been removed.

City Chief Recuperating

KINGSTON
Police Chief Julius Glassman is recuperating at his Clifton Avenue residence from an injury of his left hand he sustained last Sunday while working in the yard at his home. The chief suffered a broken finger and another finger of his left hand was crushed. He was treated at Benedictine Hospital where 10 stitches were taken to close an injury of the crushed finger. The chief said he was moving blue stone sections when his hand became jammed between two pieces of the material.

Agreement With CSEA

KINGSTON
Tentative agreement has been reached in contract negotiations between the Board of Education of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated and the Civil Service Employees Association, according to Louis A. Salzmann, superintendent of schools. It is expected that the Board of Education will vote to ratify the agreement at its meeting Thursday. If the agreement is ratified, it will leave only middle management personnel and administrators who have not agreed on terms for new contracts for next year.

TOYOTA

The sources said the West German central bank bought between $500 million and $1 billion to support the dollar at 3.15, the level at which the current exchange agreement requires a government to buy to keep the price from falling lower.

The pound was last devalued in November 1967. Its par value has been $2.60571 since the Smithsonian Agreement last year that devalued the dollar, and the government has been committed to keeping the rate within 2 1/2 per cent of that figure by buying or selling pounds.

The rate stayed for months this year around par, but the selling wave this week drove it as low as $2.5625 despite heavy purchases by the Bank of England and central banks on the Continent. It closed Thursday on the London market at $2.5750. With the London foreign exchange market closed, there was no immediate indication to what level the pound would fall. But the Economist, a leading British weekly, speculated in an article published today before the pound was set free that if it were devalued to $2.40 it would start moving upward. The exchange rate of the pound was cut in 1967 from $2.80 to $2.40. Last August, when the U.S. dollar and other world currencies began to float as a result of President Nixon's measures, the pound wedged up to $2.50.

After the Smithsonian Agreement last December, which set exchange rates for the dollar and other currencies, the pound moved up to the $2.60 level.

Businessmen Suggest Dogs...

initiated by Chief Glassman, has been praised by Senior BCI Investigator Michael Lisman and other key police officials. Investigators note that weekends have been the time burglaries occur in numbers. Authorities have learned that a special tool is being used by thieves to remove the cylinder from locks on doors.

Glenn Stampfle, manager of J. C. Penney Co., Inc., and president of the Uptown Businessmen's Association, expressed the opinion that two patrolmen should be assigned to patrol the uptown business district which takes in several blocks and includes the Kingston Shopping Plaza. "There doesn't seem to be enough police protection after business hours," Stampfle said.

As an alternative to two policemen, he suggested that the services of a trained security dog be obtained, and that the dog patrol the business area with a police officer. Using a dog would avoid the necessity of hiring another policeman and it would be less expensive. It was noted that security dogs are trained to detect suspicious noises and suspects of the burglar type.

"It would be to our advantage and also to the advantage of businesses outside the city to use security dogs with an officer," Stampfle said. He noted that the uptown business district takes in a large area.

Businessmen's Association, proposed the assignment of more policemen to foot patrol to cover beats in business sections of the city. "The beats are so big that it's difficult for one officer to cover the assignment," Arace commented.

Arace expressed approval of proposals to use security dogs in an effort to curb burglaries. He suggested that representatives of all businessmen's associations try to arrange meetings with officers from the State, city and town police departments and the sheriff's office to discuss the burglar situation and endeavor to arrive at solutions that might at least reduce the number of break-ins that presently has reached a high mark.

Joseph A. Cornelske, president of the Ulster Businessmen's Association, noted that the group sometime ago made requests to State Police and the sheriff's department for more police protection, and that the request was met to some extent.

"I feel that the state police and the sheriff's office are doing as good as they possibly can," Cornelske said. He cited cases when businessmen who return to their stores after closing hours, are approached by alert state troopers or deputy sheriffs, who insist on identification of the individual if they are not known to the officer. "That shows they are on the job," the UBA president said. He also noted that security dogs are already being used by some businessmen, including himself as a means to add protection to their businesses.

It has been pointed out by a police official that the public could aid authorities by immediately reporting any suspicious acting person near stores after closing hours, or reporting any suspicious noises in the neighborhood.

Detectives Arrest Youth

KINGSTON
A 19-year-old youth was arrested Thursday night by City of Kingston detectives on a charge of conspiracy fourth degree, as the result of an investigation of a complaint involving an alleged theft of money from a downtown store.

Edward Stanley Swierc of 54 Ten Broeck Avenue, was held for arraignment in City Court. According to detectives, Santo Amato, proprietor of a store at 47 Ravine Street, notified police that a youth and a young woman entered his store and ordered some cold cuts. While Amato was behind the counter, he reportedly heard the cash register bell ring and allegedly saw the girl take cash later tallied out at $66. She and the youth then ran from the store.

Detectives said the two ran to a car allegedly driven by Swierc and the two drove away. The investigation is being continued.

The detective division also reported the arrest Thursday of Madeline Vais, 23, of 277 Clinton Avenue. She was booked on a charge of making an apparently false statement first degree during an investigation. Police said the woman complained on June 19 that she had been raped in her apartment. A statement was taken by detectives, who later questioned the man named in the information.

The man denied the incident and on June 21 the woman went to headquarters and recanted her previous story, admitting she didn't tell the truth in the original complaint, police said. She was held for appearance in City Court.

Her Mother Sulks On Mother's Day

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and have an 8-month-old girl. My husband's mother lives 90 miles from here and my husband is the only son she has left. (She lost a 19-year-old son in Viet Nam three years ago.) She has one daughter, 17, who is dying of leukemia. Abby, this woman is so brave and wonderful. With all her trouble she never complains.

Well, my husband and I decided to drive up to be with his mother on Mother's Day, but first we stopped off at my mother's so I could give her a Mother's Day present. We found her sulking like a child, and you should have heard her carry on. She said she was hurt that I chose to spend Mother's Day with my mother in law instead of with my own mother. Abby, my mother has three other children (all healthy and living nearby) and she had been invited to spend Mother's Day with them, but she stayed home instead, and told them all that I gave her a migraine headache! Now she's barely speaking to me. She says she could have forgiven me if it had been any day besides Mother's Day. Was I wrong?

DEAR HEARSICK: No! Under the circumstances I think you did the right thing, and unless your mother isn't playing with a full deck, she knows it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 years old and have a 5-month-old baby, which makes me a mother, right? Well, as a mother I think I should be honored on Mother's Day, don't you? My mother doesn't seem to think so. She wants all her children to honor her, regardless.

Since this is my first Mother's Day as a mother, my husband planned to take me out for dinner. He bought me an orchid and everything. My neighbor said she'd watch my baby if I brought him over. Then my mother called and blubbered into the phone, "You mean you aren't spending Mother's Day with ME?"

When I told her of our plans, she said, "You have the rest of your life to spend Mother's Day with your husband. Who knows how many years you'll have me?" (Mother is 58 and in good health.) So I went to my mother's and had a miserable time. Never again! Should I have gone?

DEAR REGRETS: You should have done what you wanted to do. But once having made the decision, you should have put a smile on your face and tried to have a good time.

DEAR ABBY: My mother in law is a widow, but she is only 50 and she still likes a good time. Well, she told me that on Mother's Day she would keep my 5-month-old baby so my husband and I could go to my mother's who was making a big dinner, and having a houseful, and if I took my baby with me I wouldn't be able to help her. Well, I later found out that at the last minute some man called my mother in law to go dancing, so she put my baby in a basket and took him to the dance! Imagine, Abby, a 5-month-old baby in a dirty, smoky hall with all that noise and a bunch of strange people breathing all kinds of germs into the air.

You don't have to answer this. I just wanted to get it off my chest.

FEELS BETTER

DEAR ABBY: For Mother's Day I received a lovely card signed, "Todd, Jennifer and Lauri," who are my grandchildren, ages 5, 3 and 14 months old. Their mother (my daughter) didn't remember me, however, and I was very hurt.

Please don't misunderstand, Abby. I love my grandchildren very much, but they are NOT my children, and even though I am a proud grandmother, I am no less a mother.

I realize that my daughter bought the card which read, "To Granny on Mother's Day" and she signed her children's names, but it wasn't the same as receiving a sentimental Mother's Day remembrance from my daughter.

I would like your opinion.

SENTIMENTAL

DEAR SENTIMENTAL: Your daughter probably feels that the best gift she's ever given you are your grandchildren. And she is reminding you of it. I'd say you were "remembered," but you'd have preferred a sentimental remembrance from your daughter, which is understandable.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE
Peel Me an Egg, Myrtle

Dear Heloise:

I find when peeling hard boiled eggs, starting at the large end, they peel much easier, and please don't ask me why, I don't know.

Miss Aileen Baxlen
I don't know why either, but it's a winner. At this point, I wish to repeat one of the hints sent in by another wonderful reader, with regard to pouring the hot water off the eggs immediately, shaking the pan vigorously, until all are well cracked, and then pouring cold water on them.

I'll bet none of you will believe this until you have tried it. But don't laugh at it before you do.

It was almost unbelievable. Actually the eggs just sort of scooted out of the shells when I filled the pan with cold water. It's important, gals, because most of us boil eggs at least once a week and always have trouble peeling them.

Another lovely lady wrote about how to avoid the yellow ring around the center of the hardboiled eggs.

As soon as the eggs have finished simmering (and never boil eggs rapidly), pour off the hot water and put them in cold water to stop the eggs from continuing to cook, but BE SURE to crack them in the pan as I mentioned above. Gals, we can't miss now, can we?

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I noticed several hints in your column to help those with arthritis in their hands. I have it, too, and I found peeling potatoes a chore until I tried slicing them thick before paring. It is much easier to peel the skin off a small slice.

I'm full of ideas and I don't know which are yours or which are mine, but I do have a good way to cook my potatoes.

I use large ones, sliced about one-half to three-fourths of an inch thick, then placed on a cookie sheet lined with aluminum foil.

First I oil the foil and sprinkle generously with paprika. I also put paprika on top of the "spuds" and bake until tender, usually twenty minutes or so. The paprika makes them look nice and brown.

Grace Forness

Dear Heloise:

A tip for those mothers with toddlers wearing the infamous white shoes, or worse yet, the saddle shoes:

The unavoidable scuffs are easily covered when you use an artist's brush to apply the

Tiny Tips

Household Hint

Dark colors make a room appear smaller, light colors make it appear larger.

Warm Colors

Warm colors, such as red and orange, make a room appear warmer.

Cool Colors

Cool colors, such as green and blue, make a room seem cooler.

Center of Interest

One main center of interest usually is sufficient for a room. It may be either one wall or one main window or a fireplace or a grouping of furniture. Attention is drawn to this center through the use of color or through furniture arrangement.

Slipcovers

Slipcovers usually are made of medium weight material for ease of handling.

Doing the Right Thing

rules, to be sure. You can, within limits, do your own thing at a game and no one will think twice about it. But the limit is there, and its real name is consideration. Have your fun, but in doing so, don't spoil the fun of anyone else. I wouldn't even call the following answers to the questions rules. Think of them as suggestions to make the baseball season more fun for all the spectators — not just yourself.

1. Q. When you have a reserved seat, what difference does it make if you arrive late for a double-header?
A. It may not make a difference to you, but it makes a lot to the people you'll have to climb over to get to your seat. Chances are you'll arrive just as the pitcher is winding up for his full-count pitch, or the center-fielder is scrambling for a long fly.

2. Q. If you know you will have to leave before the end of the game, how can you cause the least trouble?
A. You can't. Leave him home with a sitter, a relative, or a friend. It is no fun to other spectators to bring a child of that age.

3. Q. How can you keep a three-year-old quiet through a whole baseball game?
A. You can't. Leave him home with a sitter, a relative, or a friend. It is no fun to other spectators to bring a child of that age.

4. Q. What are you supposed to do with litter such as candy wrappers, paper cups, etc.?
A. An outdoor stadium (or an indoor sports arena) is one place where you are free to throw wrappers, peanut shells, cigarette butts, cups, etc., on the floor. That does not include half-finished hot dogs, chewing gum, partially-filled cups. These should be taken out between innings and deposited in a trash receptacle.

5. Q. Is there a limit to the number of things one vendors during the game?
A. Not really, and certainly not if your seat is on an aisle. But you should try to have exact change if possible, and have your whole group buy at once rather than in series, to keep others in the row from having to constantly pass change and purchases back and forth.

6. Q. Is it all right to jump up and yell when an exciting play is made?
A. Yes, if everyone else is jumping up and yelling, too. Don't be solitary target of the other kind of yell, "SIT DOWN!"

Hyde Park Books Van Johnson

There is a treat in store for theatre audiences in the area when Van Johnson returns to the Hyde Park Playhouse next week in a new British farce HELP STAMP OUT MARRIAGE, a comedy of mixed identity.

Mr. Johnson, after 25 years as an international star of motion pictures and the stage, has achieved a position in the entertainment world that is most unique. Many performers are adored, but few are genuinely liked as the 6 foot 3 inch actor from Newport, Rhode Island.

In the early 40's his youthful boyish grin and disarming red-haired, freckle-faced manner skyrocketed him to fame as the idol of bobby-soxers and movie fans of all ages. Now, more than two decades later, he has matured into a charming, urbane and respected performer who is at the zenith of his volatile career.

Mr. Johnson recently added a further dimension to his already distinguished accomplishments in becoming a most exciting new attraction in night club entertainment.

Peculiarly enough, Mr. Johnson is most at home on the supper club floor since his initial entry onto the Broadway-scene was a musical-comedy performer in Leonard Sillman's NEW FACES of 1936. From there he proceeded into Billy Rose's CASA MANANA review, and then onto the Starlight Roof in New York City as one of the EIGHT MEN OF MANHATTAN with a newcomer named Mary Martin who sang MY HEART BELONGS TO DADDY.

Also appearing at the Playhouse is Peter Pagan who will be remembered by local theatre goers from last year when he starred with Mr. Johnson in GIRL IN MY SOUP.

In addition the show features Gwyda Donhowe, who was most recently seen on Broadway in APPLAUSE with Lauren Bacall, and Valerie French who is frequently appearing on T.V. in THE EDGE OF NIGHT.

It should be a very entertaining week at the Hyde Park Playhouse, and you can make your reservations by telephoning the Box Office. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, with a matinee on Thursday at 2:45, a twilight show on Saturday at 6 p.m., and a late evening show on Saturday at 9:30 p.m.

Continental Library Fair Set Saturday

STONE RIDGE
Booths and attractions will emphasize a European touch and "La Fete Continentale" will be the theme this year as the annual Stone Ridge Library Fair opens at 10 a.m. Saturday, June 24.

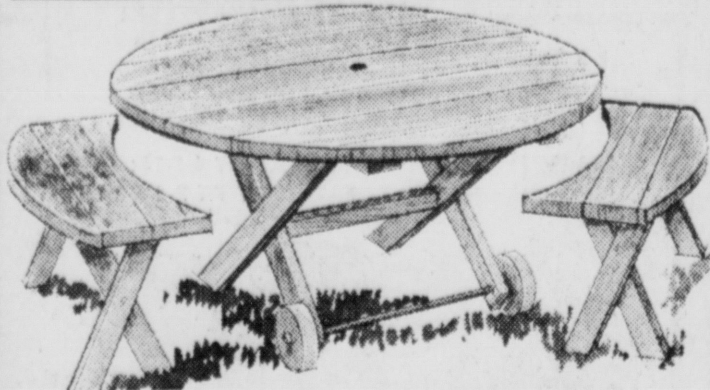

Continental gourmet delicacies, a German band, a Parisian flower cart, Italian ices, and an international fashion show are some of the events planned for the six hour fair, which will be held on the library grounds in Stone Ridge. Arthur Woodcock, first male chairman in the 37-year history of the event, is in overall charge, assisted by Arlene Paetow, vice chairman, and Sue Sarr, chairman of the last year's fair.

Other features of the fair include antique displays, a book sale, a rummage sale, a toy sale, and a white elephant sale. Frances Calcavecchio again heads the fashion show, with Chet London as commentator.

Bill Paetow and Lee Harrington will provide music. Woodcock said that the library is increasingly dependent on the success of the annual fair because population growth in the area has made increased demands on library services and facilities. He said the group hopes to improve on last year's results, when the fair grossed nearly $3,000. In case of rain the fair will be held the following day, Sunday, June 25.

Man Jailed For Larceny

ELLENVILLE

A 36-year-old Manhattan man is in the Ulster County jail under sentence of a term of six months as a result of his plea of guilty to four counts of petit larceny stemming from a scheme that police say the man bilked other people out of $300.

Rafael Solis was accused of impersonating a welfare worker. That charge was dropped before Police Justice Ronald W. Elias following the guilty plea to the larceny counts. Detective George Sheeley said Solis told people he worked with the New York City Social Services and could get them money. Police said the man allegedly told people that if they gave him $200 he would get them $1,000.

Solis also allegedly told the people involved if they gave him $100 he would get $500 for them.

Extra Work Helps For Jim and R.H.

NORTHBROOK, Ill. (UPI) — Jim Jamieson and R.H. Sikes, two guys who know the value of practice, took a one-stroke lead into the second round of the Western Open Golf Tournament today because a little extra work paid off.

Both Jamieson and Sikes, who had been having their problems, returned home for instruction last weekend.

The result was identical three-under-par 68s Thursday that placed them in a tie for the lead on a day when most of the tournament's big names succumbed to unbearably cold winds sweeping across the Sunset Ridge Country Club acreage.

"It was hard to judge shots," said Steve Oppermann, one of three players deadlocked a stroke behind the leaders. "You could hit some good shots and make a bad score."

There were plenty of bad scores, ranging all the way to an 84 by Bob Harris, the club pro, who holds the course record of 64. Billy Casper and Tony Jacklin had 75s, George Archer 76 and Julius Boros 77.

Jamieson and Sikes readily admitted their good scores were due to the teachings of Bob Fry of Davenport, Iowa, and Dutch Harrison of St. Louis, the club pros they consulted before the tournament.

Fry gave Jamieson tips on driving and Harrison gave Sikes a 25-year-old putter he once used. Both worked.

Jamieson missed only three greens in regulation, making three birdies and an eagle in one five-hole stretch, and Sikes had 10 one-putt greens, including five in a row for birdies midway through his round.

"If I ever played a round hitting every fairway, there'd be a Senate investigation," kidded Jamieson, who explained Fry got him to concentrate on the tee instead of rushing to "get it over with."

Sikes said his round was "one of the best putting rounds I've had in four years" and that he would continue to use Harrison's old putter.

"He helped me a lot," Sikes said. Oppermann was deadlocked with Hale Irwin and Tom Weiskopf at 69 while former Masters champion Charles Coody was in a group of four at one-under-par 70.

There were eight players at par-71 including Ray Floyd, Doug Sanders, J.C. Snead and Lee Elder, and eight more at 72 headed by Bobby Nichols.

On a day when wind gusts reached 30 miles per hour, both Jamieson and Sikes said they were unaffected.

Jamieson, a winner of $47,603 this year but still looking for his first tournament title, birdied the first, third and fifth holes of his morning round — he had started at No. 10 — and a four-wood second shot 18 inches from the pin on the 507-yard fourth hole for an eagle.

Sikes, a two-time National Public Links champion who has earned only $3,523 this year and has not won a tournament since 1966, used only 28 putts. He did not make a par until the 12th hole, having seven birdies, three bogeys and a double bogey until then.

Irwin missed a chance to make it a three-way tie when he took his only bogey of the day on the final hole, dumping his approach shot into a sand trap.

Astros Return the Favor

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Houston Astros don't need reminders about the last time they faced the Cincinnati Reds.

It was late May in Houston, and the Reds stormed to four straight wins by the unkind margins of 8-3, 9-5, 12-4 and 10-3.

Thursday night the Astros returned the favor.

They struck for six runs in the third inning, three on a home run by Doug Rader, and rolled to a 9-5 victory over the Reds.

The win moved Houston back into first place in the National League West, one-half game ahead of Cincinnati.

In the only other major league game played Thursday, Chicago trimmed Milwaukee 5-2 to climb within 3½ games of first place Oakland in the American League West Division.

St. Louis' National League contest at New York was rained out, as was the New York Yankees American League game at Cleveland.

"That other series (in Houston) is history now," professed Houston manager Harry Walker. "The last time we just happened to catch them when they were hot as a firecracker."

Which is exactly what the Astros were Thursday night.

Houston scored two runs in the first, but the Reds went ahead with a single run in the bottom half and a pair in the second inning.

Houston exploded in the third, however, turning three singles, a walk, an error and Rader's 11th homer into six runs with none out.

Cesar Cedeno, Houston's 21-year-old center fielder from the Dominican Republic, went four-for-four and scored three runs and drew praise from Walker as "the most exciting young ball player I've ever seen."

George Culver, 20, took the win for Houston, going 5½ innings after relieving starter Dave Roberts in the second. Wayne Simpson, 42, took the loss.

Stan Bahnsen earned his 10th victory of the season for the White Sox with late help from Cy Acosta. Reserve catcher Tom Egan, batting only .175, drove home two of the Sox runs with a pair of singles. Johnny Briggs homered for the Brewers.

The victory left the White Sox with an 11-18 record on the road compared to 24-4 at home. The difference doesn't disturb Manager Chuck Tanner.

"I just don't put any stock in that stuff. It's the total record that counts."

Kinston's Mike Ferraro was back in the starting lineup for the Brewers Thursday, but the local third baseman's slump continued as he was hitless in two trips and committed his sixth error of the season. Ferraro is now batting .259 on the year.

Stan Won't Be There

LONDON (UPI) — Although minus ace Stan Smith, the semi-finals of the London Grass Court Tennis Championships will still find three out of four semi-final berths filled by Americans.

Smith, the tall powerful topseed in the tourney was upset Thursday by unheralded John Paish 2-6, 6-3 10-8 after leading 5-2 in the dramatic final set.

Nonetheless, the U.S. dominated play elsewhere as Pancho Gonzalez, Jim Connors and Clark Graebner all triumphed and advanced to today's semifinals.

Gonzalez defeated Roscoe Tanner of Lockout Mountain, Tenn. 7-5, 6-1, while Graebner upended Australian Colin Dibley 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 and Connors bested Russia's Alex Metrevel 6-8, 6-1, 9-7.

Smith, a heavy favorite in the pre-Wimbledon tournament, looked strong as he served for victory at 5-3 but Paish recovered brilliantly to capture the ninth game.

After Smith double-faulted to let Paish break through for 9-8, the British southpaw finished off the match in the next game by brilliantly forcing his opponent into three consecutive errors.

Despite the humiliating defeat to his unseeded rival, Smith was philosophical about his Wimbledon chances. "I know Wimbledon isn't far off, but my game is coming along nicely and that means more to me than defeat," the American said afterward.

Fort Lauderdale's Chrissie Evert gained the semi-finals by easily putting away Esme Emanuel of South Africa 6-3, 6-0 and American Wightman Club teammate Wendy Overton also advanced by beating San Diego's Val Ziegenfuss 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.

The other two women's matches saw Karen Krantzke of Australia defeat Pam Teeguarden of Los Angeles 6-4, 6-1 and Pat Coleman of Australia stop Winnie Shaw of Scotland 1-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Closed Circuit TV

Ali-Quarry Raceway

A special attraction on Tuesday, June 27, at Monticello Raceway will present a televised close-circuit, prize fight doubleheader in addition to its regularly scheduled harness racing program.

The twin bill, beamed directly from Las Vegas, will pair Muhammad Ali and Jerry Quarry in one bout and defending light heavyweight champion Bob Foster and Mike Quarry in a title match.

The Ali-Quarry fight is correctly billed the "return by mandate" and is scheduled for 12 rounds. The two had an exciting, dramatic fight at Atlanta on Oct. 26, 1970 marking Ali's return to the ring after being inactive from June 15, 1967.

The bout ended suddenly because of a cut eye Quarry received at the end of the third round. The controversy centers around what might have happened had Quarry not suffered the cut.

Ali and Quarry are ranked one-two behind world heavyweight champion Joe Frazier, so the winner will surely meet Frazier for the title.

Mike Quarry the light heavyweight challenger, is the 21-year-old brother of Jerry. Undefeated in 36 professional fights, young Quarry is perhaps the hardest punching fighter in the sport. The 33-year-old Foster is a fast, slick boxer, who can also punch.

The light heavyweight championship will be on Monticello's color screens throughout the plant, starting at 9:30 p.m.

Edmunds Leads SPL in Homers

KINGSTON Earl Edmunds is holding onto a slim lead in the City Slow Pitch home run derby.

The Bud's Subs slugger, buoyed by three round-trippers in one game last week, has slammed five homers all told. That puts him one in front of a quartet of long ball hitters including Cal Faux, John Vogt, Dave Lowe, and Dink Dugan.

Several of last year's big hitters are off to a slow start. Hobie Armstrong and Buster Narum have managed to clear the fences only once each this season while Horace Walker and Joe Darwak are still looking for their first circuit clouts.

The leaders:

Earl Edmunds 5,
Cal Faux 4, Dink Dugan 4, Dave Lowe 4, John Vogt 4,
Ernie Bodie 3, Mike Longendyke 2,
Stan Tentonowski 2, Tom Bruck 2,
Carl Hill 2, Joe Nalepa 2, Tony Johnson 2, Don Burhans 2, Dan Brown 2, Arnie Smith 2, Bud Wolfe 2, Don Byrd 2, Jerry Hawkins 2, Juice Barnes 2.

The Grimaldi-Alsford tandem then teamed for a 4-hit, 5-2 win over the Jays. Alsford fanned seven and picked up the win.

Jim Farrell homered against the Eagles and hit a triple against the Jays. Grimaldi had a single-double combination and Paul Lyle stroked two singles.

Chip Stubbs of the Hurley Little League Dodgers blanked the Astros 16-0 on two hits and 11 strikeouts. Jack Rigbee tripled for the winners.

BAD TRIP — Kids and power mowing equipment never belong in the same picture, warns the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute. Children should be completely out of the grass cutting area and under no circumstances should they be allowed to ride along with Dad.

Look for Safety Seal

This year an increasing number of Americans will perform their grass cutting chores from the comfort of a riding mowing vehicle.

The popular riding mower and the lawn and garden tractor are currently selling at a record pace of nearly one million units per year, according to the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute (OPEI).

A triangular OPEI Safety Seal on the mower housing of these riding lawn vehicles means that a model of that mower has been tested and approved by an independent testing laboratory as meeting the power mower safety standard of the American National Standards Institute.

Purchasing the riding vehicle, however, is just the beginning. The OPEI urges every purchaser to learn the following list of rules which accompany each new lawn riding vehicle bearing the triangular safety seal:

Read the owner's manual. Learn to operate your mower safely and how to get the best results from it.

No passengers. Mowing your lawn is a solo job for the operator alone.

Children should not be allowed to operate a lawn vehicle or any other power mower. Only adults properly familiar with the unit should operate it.

Clear area of children and pets. When near, they may be injured by hurled objects or run over by the machine itself.

Remove all debris including stones from the lawn. A small stone can become dangerous when thrown by a mower's blade.

Always shift into neutral before starting.

Turn off engine and set the brake whenever you leave the machine.

Fill gas tank before starting and always out of doors. Never refuel a hot or running engine. Never gas up or start engine in a closed garage.

Watch for holes and hidden hazards. Always keep an eye on what's up front.

Look behind before backing. The most tragic of all riding vehicle accidents is a parent injuring a child or pet, because he didn't look behind first.

Keep off roads and highways. If you must use public thoroughfares, exercise extreme caution at all times.

Dress for the occasion. Don't wear loose fitting clothes, which could get caught in moving parts.

Disengage mowing mechanism before crossing drives, walks or roads.

Keep all shields and safety devices in place.

Reduce speed on slopes and eliminate sharp turns to prevent tipping or losing control.

Shut off the engine and power to attachments before making reports or adjustments.

Postage Stamp Gardening

By GEORGE ABRAHAM
NAPLES, N.Y.

Postage Stamp Gardening: We've mentioned this time and again. If you have a small backyard you can still grow plenty of vegetables in the space you have and harvest a bountiful amount of produce. Grow herbs in cans as they take up a small amount of space. Tomatoes, onions, peppers, lettuce and other crops can be grown in clay pots resting on a porch railing. And don't forget to garden "vertically" — meaning you should use a wire fence to let the vines grow up instead of out. I'll repeat out-wire corset method for gardeners who have a small space. Go to your lumber yard and get some concrete reinforcing wire. Roll a piece into a cylinder, 1½ feet across and 5 feet tall. The result is a column of vine growth held in place and supported by a wire cylinder. Wire with a 6 inch mesh is best because it makes it easy to reach in and pick the tomatoes. Some gardeners train their tomato vines on a wire fence stretched between two posts. Plants are set 2 feet apart and trained to 3 strands of wire mesh. Train the vine up, tying with soft cloth or wire twists. We guarantee you'll have plenty of tomatoes and they won't be full of snail holes!

Earth Worms: Good or Bad? People who play golf curse earthworms because of the castings they make on the turf. However, good gardeners know that the earth worm is a real ally. Some soils have more earthworms than others. If a soil is too dry or full of some alkaline or acid material, earthworms are apt to be scarce.

You can buy earthworms but I doubt if it pays. We've seen some earthworms that eat so much you can actually hear them eating, or crunching. You can encourage earthworms by building up your soil with extra humus. Some gardeners call the earthworm "Nature's Plowman" because it turns soil over and over, bringing up subsoil. It eats the soil to get tiny bits of leaves and other pieces of organic material. They enrich the earth by passing more than 10 tons of dry earth through their bodies annually in 1 acre alone. They help water and air get down into the subsoil, and can bury two inches or more of decayed material every decade.

Free: Having trouble with your soil? Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of our guide. Good Luck From Bad Soils. Our guide will help you produce more crops from your soil, regardless how poor it is. Meanwhile, save all your coffee grounds, tea leaves, orange skins, etc. and toss them onto the compost pile.

Your Horoscope

Saturday, June 24

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You may well be depressed in day hours about some vague longings or fears, but if you will cultivate an attitude of cheerfulness and goodwill, you will be surprised how it lifts. Then in the evening you have every chance to gain the goodwill of others and to do something unusual, interesting.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): You need to ferret out more information if you are to get that idea working properly, so that idea during day. Make plans for that trip now, even if mate seems adamant. It is important.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): You may be worried about certain vexing problems you have. Do not irk others with them, but handle them objectively and well. One you like could be annoying during day, but delightful tonight. Keep busy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Try to please a partner who thinks straight, but is blunt. Then get together for amusements in p.m. That outside affair could be disappointing in a.m., but fine tonight. Think cleverly.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Handle those duties that only you can do well during day and free time for whatever you most like to do in p.m. Get that wardrobe matter handled well. Show you have good taste.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Show others you are a good-natured person and know how to overcome any difficulties you may have. Your creative ideas may not be so good during day, but are fine tonight. Mate is in excellent mood tonight, too.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Showing consideration for those who dwell with you can make this a happy Saturday, especially if you do some entertaining at home in p.m. Get rid of whatever stands in the way of success. Think constructively.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Although a bit difficult to do, you had better get busy with shopping and errands that are important during day. You are not able to communicate well with others until p.m., but will then have a delightful time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): You may feel lack seriously during day, but if you think along constructive lines, you know just what to do by p.m. to change all that. Analyze your position accurately. Then pay whatever bills you can.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Improve your health and appearance early so you can have a delightful time socially in the p.m. A tendency to downgrade a good friend early should be forgotten. You find later that you were in error.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You are apt to be analyzing yourself too harshly today, but by tonight you see everything in right focus. Get busy utilizing that fine organizational ability you possess. Feel more sure of yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You know exactly how to gain the goals you are after now, but don't rely on friends so much, since they are too busy. Work hard and then be off to recreations that you enjoy in p.m. Dress well.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): If you get into the civic work at which you are adept, you can do much to add to prestige you now enjoy. Bigwigs you want to contact are not available until p.m. Make sure you see them then, though.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those outspoken and direct person who would do well to associate with individuals of like nature. Must be taught early to criticize only constructively, or this youngster could make enemies through harsh speaking. Slant education for work in other lands, dealing with imports, exports, etc., and be sure that the study of foreign tongues is included in the curricula.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your lift is largely up to YOU!

— WHY WE SAY —

CHAISE LOUNGE
FROM FRENCH: This name for a relaxing chair actually means long chair when translated from French. However, the name is often misread and mispronounced as chaise "lounges" when the French words are said in English and the original meaning is then altered.

LOGBOOK
WOODEN: A log book is a chronicle of events. It originally got its name from sailing where a thin log floated on a reel to keep track of the distance sailed. Gradually the distance record itself was called a log and then a logbook.

TORTURE
SPANISH TWIST: The word torture came to us from the Spanish. A prominent punishment during the period was stretching or twisting a person on a rack. The word torture is directly related to the Latin "torquere" or to twist as on a rack.

NBC... Sights on September

NEW YORK (AP) — For most of us, summer is just starting. NBC, however, has its eyes fixed firmly upon September—particularly the Saturday after Labor Day. Laurie Lea Schaefer flew into New York on Thursday to start promoting that annual extravaganza, the finals of the "Miss America Pageant," invariably one of the most popular programs of the year.

Laurie Lea is the 1972 Miss America and, like all previous Miss Americas approaching the end of their year of glory, she is full of plans for her post-pageant career.

Since last Sept. 11 when, as Miss Ohio, she was crowned, she has traveled close to 350,000 miles.

The tall, brunette beauty has appeared in 42 states and will wind up her reign with a three-week U.S.O. tour of Southeast Asia.

Also like most Miss Americas, Laurie Lea expects to continue her show business career, probably in television. She has an offer from a Columbus, Ohio, TV station, but she won't be pinned down on the details. She would like to continue doing TV commercials—as would, indeed just about everybody who gets in front of a camera.

Through months of hopping planes, living out of a suitcase and eating banquet meals, the 23-year-old said she has kept her weight—unrevealed—about the same as the day she was crowned. She has been interviewed from coast to coast and lobs answers like a professional. When she was asked about her vital statistics, revealed in her official biography as 36-24-34, a bit of the real Laurie Lea showed through the pageant veneer.

"Nobody, absolutely nobody, knows my statistics," she said. "Those are not right at all."

After all, I'm able to wear model-size clothes and that ought to tell you right away those statistics have to be wrong.

Won't it be a comedown, after the exciting year, to return to more or less everyday life?

"Oh, no," said Laurie Lea. "I'm looking forward to it, and work."

With this column, this reporter takes off on vacation. During the next few weeks, the space will be filled by guests, stars, executives, and specialists of television, each of whom responded to questions about his or her life.

Would Aid Nuclear Limitation Agreement

Nixon Wants Offensive Weapons

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon believes chances for a permanent nuclear arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union will be "totally destroyed" unless Congress approves a new offensive weapons program.

Nixon insisted at a news conference Thursday that the arms agreements he made at the Moscow summit in May should be approved by Congress on their merits.

But he warned that U.S. security would be "seriously jeopardized" unless offensive weapons, not covered in the pact, are given a go-ahead in the new defense budget.

Nixon argued that the new weapons—which include the Trident submarine and B1 bomber—are needed as an incentive for the Soviets to move ahead this fall on "Phase Two" negotiations for the big prize of a permanent arms freeze.

Without such a bargaining chip, he said, "chances for a permanent offensive agreement would be totally destroyed."

Congress has under consideration treaties for a limited, temporary offensive nuclear weapons curb, and for limitation of antiballistic missile sites.

The President's 40-minute impromptu news conference in his oval office—his third of the year—was keyed at his request mainly to domestic issues. He promised another "general" news conference next week.

Informed sources said he will announce his next troop cut from Vietnam.

In response to other questions, Nixon: —Indicated he reluctantly would sign the $19 billion, higher education bill today, but remains highly critical of its antibusing provisions which he called "vague" and "so ambiguous."

—Said he is considering temporarily lifting the quotas on foreign beef imports out of concern for rising meat prices. He also is considering action, possibly broad controls, to bring food prices down.

—Asserted the White House has had "no involvement whatever" in the break-in and bugging attempt at the Democratic National Party headquarters here last weekend. Party Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien charged a "clear line to the White House" in connection with the alleged burglary.

—Said he agreed with his reelection committee that it was not necessary to disclose the identity of those who contributed $10 billion to his campaign before the disclosure law took effect.

—Said he would submit a tax reform proposal, including relief for nonpublic schools, to Congress before the end of the year, but it will not be acted on until next year. He will consider the value added tax—tantamount to a national sales tax, to ease the property tax burden only if a "non-retrogressive formula" can be found.

—Agreed with Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird on the dismissal of Gen. John Lavelle, while neither the Russians nor the Chinese may want without a court-martial for to do any arm-twisting in unauthorized bombing strikes Hanoi, the situation in itself against North Vietnam. Nixon plies pressure on the North said it was an "appropriate Vietnamese regime."

S. Viets Fight Off Reds Near Hue

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese paratroopers backed by heavy strikes from U.S. B52 bombers today fought off a Communist attack across the northern defense line near Hue.

Eighteen Communist tanks were destroyed in the fighting. The government troops engaged an estimated 2,000 North Vietnamese troops as they crossed the My Canh River and tried to break through the South Vietnamese defense line guarding the former imperial capital of Hue on Thursday.

The U.S. command ordered a record 25 waves of B52 bombers into the fight in direct support of the South Vietnamese airborne troops. The big planes dropped 2,250 tons of bombs in 18 hours on Communist positions south of Quang Tri and west of Hue, 32 miles to the south.

Military sources said the South Vietnamese reported 18 tanks knocked out, two by government forces using captured Communist 75mm recoilless rifles. The other 16 tanks were destroyed by American and South Vietnamese warplanes.

The South Vietnamese reported 146 Communists killed in the fighting. One government paratrooper was killed and nine wounded.

The government troops were guarding the flank of a northbound South Vietnamese Marine raid into Communist-held Quang Tri Province when the North Vietnamese launched their tank-led assault.

Military spokesmen also reported heavy fighting 13 miles southwest of Hue, where government infantrymen backed by warplanes and artillery killed 75 North Vietnamese at a cost of seven wounded.

South Vietnamese forces struggling to lift the 79-day siege of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, recaptured the strategic Tau O bridge on Highway 13 Thursday. The bridge is 10 miles south of An Loc.

Military sources said 25 Communists were killed in the battle over the bridge with government losses put at eight dead and 30 wounded. The sources estimated as many as 100 more North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed by American and South Vietnamese air strikes.

Reports from Phnom Penh in neighboring Cambodia said an anticipated Communist attack on Highway 1 about 32 miles southeast of the capital failed to materialize.

Reinforcements were rushed to the Mekong River ferry crossing town of Neak Luong Thursday after a night of artillery attacks against Cambodian positions. But today Chhang Song, a Cambodian military spokesman, reported "all is calm."

held Quang Tri Province when the North Vietnamese launched their tank-led assault.

Military spokesmen also reported heavy fighting 13 miles southwest of Hue, where government infantrymen backed by warplanes and artillery killed 75 North Vietnamese at a cost of seven wounded.

South Vietnamese forces struggling to lift the 79-day siege of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, recaptured the strategic Tau O bridge on Highway 13 Thursday. The bridge is 10 miles south of An Loc.

Military sources said 25 Communists were killed in the battle over the bridge with government losses put at eight dead and 30 wounded. The sources estimated as many as 100 more North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed by American and South Vietnamese air strikes.

North Vietnam Communists Worried

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

North Vietnam's Communist regime has been grumpy all along about high-level U.S. diplomacy in Red capitals, and now it seems worried that it is being boxed in between allies and foes.

The emerging picture is one of a regime under pressure, and the impression is created that some movement is possible soon in the long deadlock over peace terms.

The pressure could be generated by worry in Hanoi that a changing world climate might force it to consider terms well short of its goals.

The effectiveness of President Nixon's diplomacy now could depend on the extent of Soviet and Chinese belief in the President's ability to be re-elected.

Washington sources say the initiative for Henry Kissinger's latest trip to China came from Peking. Premier Chou En-lai may have been anxious to hear what the White House thinks about the President's chances for reelection. He would also be anxious to know what went on between Nixon and the Russians in Moscow and what are the absolute minimum American terms for an Indochina settlement.

Whatever the Russian views might be on such matters, Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorniy did make a hurried trip to Hanoi, and his welcome seemed to have been something less than hearty. His mission undoubtedly involved explaining the Moscow summit and promising that the Kremlin would remain faithful to its "internationalist duty" in Indochina. Still, that would not have captured Quang Tri Province, but North Vietnam has suffered some severe material and psychological damage even apart from an enormous cost in manpower.

Hanoi's internal propaganda pictures mounting problems. The press demands total effort to "produce sufficient food and grain to feed our troops and people," to put every available square foot of land and every available worker to use. It warns against black-marketing in food; concedes that U.S. responses to the offensive "created many difficulties for us" and warns of strict measures to maintain "public order" and "prevent opportunists from taking advantage of wartime to infringe on the property of the state and people."

Such complaints and warnings are not new, but today there is a background obligation of reproach to Hanoi's allies suggesting perhaps some desperation.

The official press has been reluctant to tell the North Vietnamese about Nixon's huddles in Moscow and Peking. It complains without naming the allies.

U.S. sources in Southeast Asia express belief that both China and the Soviet Union want to see the Indochina war ended, each for its own reasons.

black markets, the President said "controls will not work unless you also move on the supply side."

But Donald Rumsfeld, council director, remarked to reporters that he regards the Price Commission's action as a "modest little missive." The spokesman said the commission's recommendation had been under study for some time.

Besides removing the exemption on raw agricultural products, the government has considered a temporary freeze on farm products, limiting the costs that wholesalers and retailers can pass through when they sell food, and tougher enforcement.

The sharp food-price rise, not expected a few weeks ago, has turned out to be the biggest challenge to the wage-price-control system, posing delicate economic and political problems for the administration.

President May Lift Meat-Import Quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he is considering lifting meat-import quotas temporarily to slow the rise in food prices, while keeping open the option of tougher controls on food.

Nixon told newsmen Thursday that he has directed a study of the impact of lifting the quotas, a move designed to expand the U.S. supply of meat. He conceded it may take a while for such a move to work.

"It will not affect the problem immediately, but at least it would affect it over the next few months," Nixon said.

As the President spoke, his Cost of Living Council, overseer of wage-price controls, met at the White House to consider whether price controls should be expanded to try to combat the sharp rise in food prices.

The council had before it a recommendation by the Price Commission that the current exemption of raw agricultural products from controls be ended, or that "firm and immediate" action be taken to try to bring the food-price situation under control.

Nixon didn't mention that recommendation at his news conference, but he did say the possibility of expanding meat imports does not rule out "the possibility of moving on the control side."

After the council meeting, a spokesman would say only that the nine-member agency merely discussed the options without acting. Any recommendations will go to the President, the spokesman said.

But Donald Rumsfeld, council director, remarked to reporters that he regards the Price Commission's action as a "modest little missive." The spokesman said the commission's recommendation had been under study for some time.
